QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

ANNUAL DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

INTERESTING SPEECH BY DR. CLAUD SEVERN.

The annual Speech Day at Queen's College is an event looked forward to by all who are interested in the progress of the premier Government School in the Colony, and despite the drizzling rain on Saturday morning, a large gathering of parents of the pupils and friends of the School assembled in the School-hall which was suitably decorated for the occasion. Owing to indisposition, H.E. the Governor, who had intended to present the prizes, was unable to be present, and his place was taken by the Hon. Dr. Claud Severn, C.M.G. Dr. Severn was received at the entrance to the College by the College Company of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade and, after inspecting it, took his seat at the head of the hall. With him were Mr. E. A. Irving, Director of Education, Mr. E. Ralph, Inspector of English schools, and Mr. B. Tanner, Headmaster of the College.

Mr. TANNER said:—Dr. Severn, you will, I am sure, sympathise with us in our regret that His Excellency the Governor is prevented by sickness from honouring us with his presence to-day, and we ask you to be good enough to convey to His Excellency our very sincere wishes for his speedy and complete recovery and the hope that we may soon have the honour of welcoming him at Queen's College. For yourself, sir, we are always very pleased indeed to see you at Queen's College and we specially appreciate your kindness in taking His Excellency's place in this morning and consenting to honour us on behalf of all connected with the College upon the honour recently bestowed upon you by the University of Hongkong. (Applause)—and of wishing you, when you proceed on leave next month, a thoroughly happy and enjoyable holiday. (Applause.)

The Headmaster then read the following report:—
ATTENDANCE—The total number of scholars enrolled during the year ending December 31st, 1919 was 1,138, just 150 more than in the previous year. The average daily attendance throughout the year was 608, being 30 more than during 1918. The highest attendance was registered on September 18th, when 794 boys were present, the lowest on July 28th, the last day of the Summer term, when the attendance dropped to 472. This reduction in numbers occurs annually in July and is accounted for by a combination of circumstances. The school year terminates then, and since the annual examinations are just about to take place, a great number of boys leave permanently, either to proceed to the University or to take up various occupations, while others are granted temporary leave of absence.

STAFF—This has again been a year remarkable for the great and continual changes among the European members of the Staff. In February Mrs. Litt resigned and Mrs. Nightingale went on leave in May. In August we were extremely pleased to welcome Messrs. Halston and Fletcher upon their return from active service. In October, Mr. Nightingale was transferred to the Kowloon British School, and his place here was taken by Mr. Edwards, who in December we were fortunate enough to obtain the services of Mr. Updell who undertakes his duties here with a backing of several years' experience among Chinese students. There were other changes much too numerous to be entered into in detail here, and I merely mention so many of them in order to emphasise the fact that very great credit is due to all members of the staff for the efficiency and absence of friction with which the year's work was conducted. Still, a certain amount of dislocation is bound to result from these changes, and it is only by perpetual manoeuvring on the part of the Headmaster and by the cheerful and loyal support of all members of the Staff that the work of an establishment like Queen's College can be carried on in anything approaching a satisfactory manner. We all hope most sincerely that during the present year this very serious disability will be removed by the appointment of the additional masters and mistresses provided for in the estimates. The Staff of Chinese Assistant Masters remains the same except that, since the resignation of Mr. Lai Yim-tung as long ago as December 1918, there has been such a dearth of properly qualified Chinese masters that no one has been appointed to take his place. With our Vernacular Staff we have been more fortunate, and in view of our steadily increasing number have from time to time been made, so that in place of the original 5 Vernacular masters we have now a staff of 8, all doing able and efficient supervision of Mr. Sung Hok-pang, Senior Vernacular Master.

DISCIPLINE—Discipline has been maintained at a very high standard and it is gratifying to be able to record that this is due not so much to the always strict enforcement of ordinary disciplinary measures as to the healthy tone and spirit of responsibility existing in a constantly increasing measure among the boys themselves. The School Prefect, who has a special word of commendation for the very valuable assistance they render in this connection, not only by the control they exercise in the playgrounds and in the class-rooms, but by the example they set and the keenness they display in all matters concerning the welfare and reputation of the School. I may here mention that the second annual prefects' dinner, held on November 18th, proved an unqualified success and was chiefly remarkable for an exceptionally fine speech delivered by Wei Tat, Head Prefect for the year.

ORGANISATION.

In this department there have been certain modifications. The training of Pupil Teachers has been again placed entirely in the hands of one master, Mr. Handyside, instead of devolving, as it did for a time, upon various members of the Staff. Throughout the School the classes are now arranged in pairs, each pair of classes being taught by at least one European master or mistress and one Chinese master; this re-adjustment was instituted to ensure for boys in all classes an equal amount of instruction from a European teacher. In September last a single section of Class 8, for beginners in English, was formed in response to the numerous applications received from old Queen's College boys and others that facilities be provided here for the complete English education of their young sons and relations. The rule is now in force throughout the School that no boy receives promotion unless he satisfies the examination either here or at the University in both English and Chinese. It has long been realised that in one very important particular our equipment has been sadly deficient. In the past the entire absence of a chemical laboratory and to the fact that our physical laboratory is of a temporary and very inadequate nature. This matter has from time to time been brought forward in recent years and was definitely shelved during the war. But we now hope it will receive the favourable consideration of H.E. the Governor and we hope we will have these two necessary adjuncts before long. (Applause.)

HEALTH OF SCHOOL—The health of the School generally was quite normal throughout the year, and our attendance, although affected by temporary sick leave, did not suffer, as it did in 1918, from outbreaks of epidemic diseases. The individual medical examination of students instituted in 1918 and partially carried out in August 1919 by Dr. Macaulay, and has resulted in quite a large number of boys having their eyes tested and being provided with suitable glasses. It is unfortunate that this examination should have taken place in the early part of the year, since so many of our senior boys leave in July, and the results would be much more made in if arrangements could be made in June for such examinations to take place at the beginning of the School year in September, and immediately after the admission of new boys.

STUDIES—All boys in the two Senior Classes—Classes 1 and 2—known alternatively as the Matriculation and Junior Local Classes, were entered without discrimination for the University Examinations in July. For Matriculation 18 students were entered, 16 of whom actually sat for the examination, and of whom 7 qualified for the Matriculation certificate. In this section four scholars were gained:—(a) One President's Scholarship, with Honours, by Tsui Tsz-shok. (Applause); (b) One King Edward VII. Scholarship, by Mr. Alim Khan. (Applause); (c) and (d) Canton Government Scholarships, by Tsui Tsz-shok and Chan Yung. (Applause.) In the Junior Local examination two additional students entered for and succeeded in passing the Matriculation examination. For fewer than 100 candidates, a record number, of whom the great majority presented themselves for the original examination. When, however, owing to the very regrettable occurrences connected with a leakage of examination papers, it was decided by the University authorities to repeat the examination, there was a certain amount of confusion and misunderstanding that led to only 15 of our boys presenting themselves for re-examination, and of these only one succeeded in obtaining the Junior Local certificate. This was a great disappointment to all concerned, more especially as we had rather prided ourselves upon sending up quite a good lot of candidates; and in addition, spoiling our record for the year in that since we had to make arrangements to hold special examinations for the promotion of these boys. In December, 23 boys presented themselves for the Junior Local Examination; and of these 18 obtained certificates. In Classes below Class 2, we conducted the annual examinations ourselves, and special efforts were made, by raising the standard of the various papers set, and by avoiding the too generous awarding of marks, to ensure that no boy received promotion who did not thoroughly deserve it. As a direct result, the percentage of passes in most classes was lower than in some instances very decidedly so; but in the previous year, but we feel sure that this is another step in the right direction and that future results will prove us justified in having introduced it. In Class 3, the largest class in the School—comprising in July last 6 sections and containing 150 boys, there were 154 boys examined and of these 119 qualified for promotion to class 3. Throughout Class 3, Chinese newspapers are now used in connection with translation lessons, each boy subscribing a small amount monthly and so becoming entitled to a regular supply of papers. It is upon admission to this Class 3, either from Lower School here, or from a District or other school, that boys are called upon to decide whether they will join the "Full" section leading up to Matriculation and the University, or the "Commercial" section which provides a course of study intended to fit them for business, and it is perhaps a matter for gratification that every year there is an increased tendency to take up the "Full" course instead of the "Commercial." So much so is this the case that whereas a few years ago we had as many as 6 sections on the "Commercial" side of Class 3, and only 2 on the "Full," we have had since September last, 5 "Full" sections and only 3 "Commercial." We trust this tendency will continue, and that it will result in an increasingly large proportion of our boys remaining with us and qualifying for entrance to the University, since it is undoubtedly an indication that there is an increasing demand among the Chinese for "education" in the best sense of the term. (Applause.) In the Lower and Preparatory schools, comprising classes 4, 5, 6, and 7, we examined 250 boys, and of these 218 qualified for promotion.

NORMAL CLASS AND STUDENT INTERPRETERS.
The nine first year Pupil Teachers attending the Normal Class were entered for the Matriculation Examination. Of these 3 obtained certificates and are now taking the University course for Student Teachers. This makes a total of 9 student teachers now being maintained by the Hongkong Government at the University. No second year examination was held, since all our second year students had been promoted to fill vacancies occasioned by the shortage of Chinese Assistant Masters. The practice of holding competitive examinations for the appointment of Student Interpreters has been abandoned, it having been decided that these posts can frequently be more suitably filled by the appointment of such outside applicants as possess special qualifications, especially with regard to a knowledge of various dialects. These boys were formerly appointed and attended the college until required to fill vacancies in different Government offices. We still have 5 of them in attendance here and they are to remain until required to take up appointments.

ATHLETICS.—All games continue to flourish, and instead of being confined to a comparatively small number, are now keenly followed by a steadily increasing proportion of our boys. Inter-class football and volleyball competitions are largely responsible for this, and during the season we have seen as many as 19 or 20 football teams and an equal number of volleyball teams. In last year's competitions, for which 20 teams entered, the volleyball shield was won by Class 4, while the football shield has just come into the possession of Class 2A (Commercial). We still hold the shield in the open Volley-ball League and that for the Senior School League, but have lost the Senior Schools' Football Shield which we held last year. Just three weeks ago, we won, for the first time, the Lurgan Challenge Cup in the Junior Schools' Football League. (Applause).—And still more recently, in the quite newly organized Basketball League, we have secured the top position in both divisions. (Applause).—In addition to Football, Volley-ball, Cricket and Tennis, to say nothing of such comparatively mild games as ping-pong and shuttle-cock, and a small amount of base-ball, we have this year started a basketball court and the game which is an ideal one for cold weather, is being keenly followed by quite a large number of enthusiasts. We are also able to put up quite a good showing in shot-putting, discus and javelin-throwing and pole-jumping, while the sand-pit provided in the lower play-ground for long and high jumping is always in great request. At the combined school sports the Junior championship medal was awarded to Ko Chi-to, one of our Class 5 boys. The customary bathing parties and picnics held during the summer were extremely popular and attended by large numbers. In May 4 of our boys were selected to represent South China at the Olympic held in Manila, and did some very creditable work during that meeting. I understand, too, that three of our aspiring sportsmen have entered for the forthcoming Marathon Race, and we wish them every success. The Swimming Championship Shield, put up for competition by the Hongkong Amateur Athletic Federation, still remains in the possession of our crack swimmer, Douglas Laing. (Applause).—The won it in October, 1918. This promising young swimmer came in second in the Harbour swim, organized by the Victoria Recreation Club in October last, and we expect him to do still greater things in the future. (Applause).—All games have been greatly forwarded by the unflinching encouragement given by masters and mistresses, as evidenced not only by their advice and supervision, but by their attendance at the different matches, and the active part some of them have taken in various games.

GENERAL.—Friday, October 17th, was remarkable and will long be remembered as the occasion of our Peace Celebrations. The "Yellow Dragon" which will attain its majority in June of this year, and which is still under the very able and efficient editorship of Mr. Kay, continues its increasingly useful career, and one very noticeable feature of the magazine is the frequency and regularity with which boys send in contributions to its pages. The circulation of the "Yellow Dragon" is not confined to Hongkong or China, but extends to subscribers in every one of the continents and in quite a large number of different countries. (Applause).

The Queen's College Division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade Overseas, which has been in existence for three years, consists of about 28 members as compared with 40 last year. Notwithstanding this drop in numbers it is abundantly proved by the year's records that there has been no falling off in "quality," and if further proof be needed it is provided by the array of trophies now held by the Division, and comprising:—1. The Ralphs Efficiency Shield; 2. The Ho Tung Challenge Cup for Life-saving, won by Ko King-fan; 3. The Ho Brothers' Challenge Cup, for the Brigade Swimming Championship won by Douglas Laing; 4. The Holyok Attendance Cup; 5. The Sir Paul Chayer Shield awarded annually to the Division obtaining the highest aggregate of points at the Brigade Aquatic Meeting. All ranks are to be congratulated upon the regularity with which they attend lectures, drills, and parades, and the general keenness they evince in all matters connected with Brigade work. Mr. Kong Ki-fai, who holds the rank of Honorary Sergeant in the Division, is in great measure responsible for the high state of efficiency preserved. (Applause).—Quite recently, a portion of the basement has been fitted up to provide suitable accommodation for our Ambulance wagon, stretchers, and other first-aid appliances.

The School Library is more popular than ever, and much more used than formerly, especially by Classes 1 and 2 and members of the Staff; it now comprises well over 3,000 volumes, consisting of Fiction, History, Geography, Science and General Literature, arranged in two sections—lending and reference. The books in the reference section have been extensively used in connection with the weekly debates held by the Normal and Matriculation Classes.

All our Class-rooms have been brightened and rendered distinctly more 'educative' by additional maps, pictures and diagrams, and our staircases and corridors are being transformed into veritable picture galleries, where are exhibited specimens of the work of such artists as Au Shu-yung of Class I (Commercial).

The two rooms in the basement, until recently occupied as Common Room and Office by the Vernacular Masters, have now been handed over to the College branch of the Y.M.C.A., which has established in one a very popular Chinese Library and Reading-room, and in the other tables for chess, Chinese and European. A part of the main basement has been enclosed and is used on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons for hand practice; while in other parts ping-pong tables have been placed, and racks provided for a supply of daily newspapers, English and Chinese.

Drill and gymnastics have been taken regularly throughout the preparatory and lower schools by Mr. Ko Kin-fan, a keen and enthusiastic old College boy, whose services we have been fortunate enough to retain, and whose instruction and help are greatly appreciated by all the boys placed under him. A new store-room for gymnastic apparatus has been erected at the west end of the lower play-ground.

Our Amateur Dramatic Association still pursues its vigorous course, but was not quite so much in evidence in 1919 as it was during the war. Still there were occasional performances and arrangements are at present being made for the production of a series of plays at Cheung-chau during the Chinese New Year holidays in response to an appeal made on behalf of a fund that is being raised for the benefit of the local hospital.

The social life of the College shows signs of vigorous development, and a succession of very enjoyable meetings, lectures and social gatherings was arranged by members of the Ambulance Division and the College branch of the Y.M.C.A.

A number of boys in Class 2 are availing themselves of the course in Biblical Knowledge arranged by the secretary of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. for the benefit of those who wish to take this subject at the University Examinations.

We all realize that there is still room for great advance and improvement in many directions, but so long as our boys are proud of belonging to Queen's College, and so long as they are determined to prove that Queen's shall have reason to be proud of them, we feel that we are working along right lines and that we need not despair of filling with credit the place we occupy in the educational system of the Colony. (Applause).—I take this opportunity of expressing to all members of the Staff my sincere appreciation of the whole-hearted loyalty and devotion to duty, and in conclusion, it is my agreeable duty to thank you, Sir, in the name of all interested in Queen's College, for so kindly consenting to honour us by distributing the prizes; the visitors for their attendance; and all those who have so generously contributed to our Prize Fund—the donations of these last are already recorded on our notice boards and will be acknowledged in the next issue of the "Yellow Dragon." (Applause).

DR. SEVERN'S SPEECH.

"Dr. SEVERN said: Mr. Director of Education, Mr. Tanner, Masters and Boys, of Queen's College, I bring a message from H.E. the Governor, whom I saw on my way here this morning to the effort that he deeply regrets that he has been prevented by illness from presiding at the first annual prize-giving since his arrival in the Colony, and he wished me to say that in addition to his regret at not being able to present the prizes he was also sorry to miss the opportunity of seeing the game of basketball which had been arranged to precede this function. He has not yet seen that game played, and he had looked forward to seeing a short exhibition of it given by the winners of the Basketball League. This is, as I am sure you will all agree, a very unusual circumstance, and the third year in succession at which I have had the honour of presenting the prizes at Queen's College, and I can assure you, Mr. Tanner, I always come here with the greatest pleasure, because this College represents the height of Government effort in education in this Colony, and therefore its progress and prosperity is a matter of very great satisfaction to all those who are responsible for education here. I am sure that the report that you have read must be considered very satisfactory. It indicates the enthusiasm with which you are looking forward to the future, as well as the measure of prosperity that you have achieved during the past year. This Report covers the last year, I may say, in which you worked under the war, and the attendance and the enrolment are both eminently satisfactory. (Applause).—I am particularly pleased to hear your report on the school prefects, because so long as the prefects realise the responsible position in which they are placed, and take a real interest in their work, both in the school and outside in the sports, it cannot fail to have a very great influence on the general prosperity of Queen's College. I will mention one item to which you drew attention in your report. It is in regard to the provision of a laboratory. As I only had the opportunity of looking at this report a few minutes before I left to come here I had no time to examine the files in my office to find out how that subject stood. But when I saw His Excellency the Governor

on the way here I mentioned the fact that you had drawn attention to it, and he wished me, on my return, to go into the matter at once. (Applause).—Whether my researches will lead to anything happening or not I certainly am not going to say, because we have a habit in the Government service never to promise anything: it is very much safer, and prevents disappointments. I have already spoken at a prize-giving a few days ago on the subject of medical examination in schools, and I refer to this again to show what has been done by the Government as regards the provision of spectacles for those whose eyes have been found to require them. I can only repeat that I hope the parents of boys will not hesitate to make any small sacrifice required in providing suitable spectacles, and as a last resort of going to the Government, if they are unable to afford them. I also mentioned the subject of teeth. It is a very important one and one which many people regret in after life not having recognised it as such. I notice that the matriculation results are fairly satisfactory. I hope they will be still more satisfactory in the future. I need not refer to what you have described in the report as a regrettable occurrence, except to say whatever extra work was placed on the school authorities in that case was also placed on the University authorities, if possible in a greater measure. The University authorities did the only thing possible under the circumstances, and I hope that such a thing will never occur again, because it strikes at the root of the principle in examination and is a reflection on the honesty of certain unknown people. I notice with great satisfaction in the upper classes who are taking the full course. That must lead to an increasing number of boys proceeding from Queen's College to the University which I hope is recognised as the normal ambition of every diligent student. (Applause).—I hope that the experiment in education which the Government took three years ago of paying for the training of student teachers at the University will have very satisfactory results. I noticed that there are at present nine so maintained, and we must hope that the standard of teaching will be greatly improved—not only the teaching but, the general abilities of those teachers, owing to the life and associations which they form in the University and the broadening of their outlook generally. (Applause). I now pass to that part of the report which deals with athletics. I do not think any school in Hongkong could show such a fine record of successes as Queen's College has had during the past year. (Applause). It is especially satisfactory because of the increased number of boys who are taking part in games. Games that you play here are suited to the limited areas of your ground, and they give scope for a great many competitors to take part at the same time. I have suggested elsewhere, and I think the suggestion arose from what I have been already told, that all those games can be played—volley-ball, basketball, and football—without one game supplanting the other, at different seasons, so that you cannot get tired of them. That allows one game to be played for a few months, then left off and to be returned to a few months later with increased zest and with no flagging of interest. Both volleyball and basketball are excellent games; the former can be played in the hot weather and the latter in the cold. I am hoping to see basketball fairly started before the Chinese New Year, and to see some of the games before I leave the Colony. I can only refer briefly to the great success in swimming and say I have watched Laing's progress for the last two or three years, and sometime ago spotted him as a successful winner of the Harbour race. (Applause). That race is a test of endurance and judgment in shaping the course across the harbour and may be looked upon as the summit of a swimmer's ambition here, and I am quite sure you shall see him, if not first, at any rate quite close to the winner next year. Now I want to speak of other activities of Queen's College, and to make special mention of your school magazine, the Yellow Dragon. You must not forget that the magazine in the early days had the support of Mr. James who was master here for many years and he was, I believe, its founder. I think I am right in saying he started it. His great talents are now lost to us and I do not think the old boys who came under his tuition years ago will forget the wonderful way he imparted knowledge and his enthusiasm and his interest which made the magazine the great success it has become. I hope the Ambulance Section will go up to its old number. It is rather small at present, but I am told very efficient, and though it makes some demand on the time of its members it is very useful work indeed, and you must take every opportunity of bringing the section up to its full number. I would like to conclude by saying that the great subject of the teaching of English in this school as in other secondary schools in this Colony is recognised as of the first importance in connection with those who proceed to the University. It is essential that every effort should be made to see that every student who goes from the leading schools in Hongkong, and this College in particular, should go to the University with a thorough knowledge of English, both written and spoken, and I want to suggest that excellent opportunities are given during this week of going to hear the plays which are now being performed by the members of the University Union. I have twice already gone to hear them and it is extraordinary how some of the players have achieved a thorough knowledge of all the subtleties of the English tongue as declared in these particular plays. To my ear, and I am fairly critical, I could not have attempted to deliver some of the lines as they were delivered by the students, and I think if you go there and take an interest and try and listen to the words as the plays are performed, it will be of immense assistance in your learning of spoken English. (Applause). There are not only Chinese, but probably one of the best of the performers is a Malay, from the State of Kedah, and that shows that any Asiatic who has achieved a knowledge of the English tongue can make his speaking thoroughly perfect. I hope a good number will go there to hear and listen to those plays either today or on Wednesday next. I am glad to see you are going to help Cheung Chau, by raising a fund for a hospital. It is a very useful thing to do. I now conclude by congratulating you, Mr. Tanner, on the work during the past year. I hope you will all have a pleasant holiday, a happy Chinese New Year and will return to work with every possible zeal and energy during the coming year. (Applause).

UNVEILING OF PORTRAITS.

At the conclusion of the prize giving Dr. SEVERN unveiled the photos of Mr. Lee Hy-san, and Mr. B. Tanner. In doing so he said:—I have been asked on behalf of His Excellency the Governor to unveil two portraits to be added to the very fine collection you already have in this hall. The first portrait that I will unveil is that of Mr. Lee Hy-san, whom I am sure we are very glad to see here today. (Applause). He was for five years a pupil in Queen's College, and after he entered business life he became one of our benefactors and has taken special interest in the organisation of the Ambulance Section and in fitting out scholarships. He has also presented two scholarships, one in his own name, the Lee Hy-san scholarship, and the other in the name of your former second master, Mr. Grant. I am sure that it is a very right and proper thing that his portrait should adorn these walls. The second portrait that I have to unveil is that of your Headmaster, Mr. Tanner. Mr. Tanner feels it is a very great honour to have his portrait here, but with that diffidence which it is natural to find in the very efficient, he would rather his portrait had been unveiled some time hence, and for his own sake, I believe preferably after he had left the Colony. But here it is, and I am sure that it is very gratifying that you have taken this early opportunity of having it here, as it shows how much you appreciate his services. (Loud applause.)

This concluded the proceedings.

HONGKONG BOXING ASSOCIATION.

SATURDAY'S SUCCESSFUL TOURNAMENT.

MASON WINS THE COLONY'S MIDDLE-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

MAHER REMAINS AMATEUR LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION.

The miserable weather which prevailed on Saturday night did not prevent many from attending the third boxing tournament arranged under the auspices of the Hongkong Boxing Association, and there was a large crowd to watch the fighting at the Stadium. The tournament will go down in local history as one of the best held in recent years, and the management of the Association deserves credit. The boxing was of a good standard, and, in every case, the losers put up so plucky a fight that they earned the well-deserved plaudits of the crowd. The fact that men of different warships were fighting each other occasioned much rivalry, but the best spirit prevailed, and all enjoyed themselves.

The flagship carried off the honours, strengthening the claims of the ship's company to being the most sporting warship on the Station. The Hawkins undoubtedly contains the best boxers in the China Squadron. One fancies, too, that their cricket and hockey teams can defeat the teams of any other individual unit. Last Friday, the flagship's football team inflicted on the Carlisle the eleven first defeat they had sustained in the United Services Football League, and they are already favourites for the honours in the Hongkong Challenge Shield. With so many new warships now on their way to China, it will be interesting to see whether the Hawkins will retain the Fleet's boxing honours.

To come back to Saturday's tournament, among those present were the Admiral, Sir Alexander Duff, Sir William Ross Davies, K.C., and the Hon. Dr. Claud Severn. The duties of referee were shared by Messrs. Geddes, Logan and Murdoch and Major Rapson, D.S.O., and it must be frankly admitted that the refereeing throughout was extremely good. It was most cheering to hear Mr. Geddes's voice ordering the boxers to break from clinches and not to hit in clinches. The timekeepers were Messrs. A. B. Allan and S. Kelly, the latter taking the place of Mr. W. Pitt, who is due to go home some day this week. The band of the Wiltshire Regiment, lent by the officers, considerably livened the proceedings both before the fights and in the intervals.

During the evening Mr. J. C. Williams, the hard-working Manager of the Association, made the pleasing announcement that the Association had arranged for a meeting between Iron Bux, formerly of Hongkong and now of Manila, and "Sky" Kerrison, for the welter-weight championship of the Colony. Bux, who is a Hongkong "boy," began his boxing career under Kid Marlet, and beat every thing in the light and bantam-weights in Hongkong before he went to Manila some time ago. In Manila, Bux has been doing a lot of fighting. He claims to be the welter-weight champion of the Orient, and has won the light and bantam-weight championships of Manila before he went up into the welter-weight class. Bux has certainly been fighting more than Kerrison and will come here with a big reputation, having got the better of some really good American boxers. Recently Bux was defeated by an Australian who is after Benny Leonard's scalp. Kerrison's friends are fairly confident that he will win, for he is better than he was before the war, and has improved in his defence. It is certain that the match, which will be fought on March 6th, in the Stadium, will be a great one. Their styles are very similar.

The fight between Ship's Cook North, of the Carlisle, and Corpl. Cook, R.M.L.I., of the Hawkins was carried out in such a friendly spirit that some of the spectators, who have not yet learned to appreciate Cook's clean style, were inclined to be impatient. Both the men were good boxers, and there was a lot of clinching, and both men kept away from inflicting much punishment on North, who countered cleverly with his left and used his feet to good advantage. Cook was the aggressor for most of the time, and was rightly given the verdict.

The fight between Betty Maher, a Hongkong lad who saw much service in France and gained the light-weight championship of his Corps in a tournament in London and Sergt. Ward, of the Naval Yard Police, excited more than usual interest. Maher had won three good fights in Hongkong before the war at the expense of Dixon, Gifford and Battling Joe of Manila, and has filled out considerably since then. Ward's experience as a boxer is short. His last appearance in the ring was three years ago when he knocked out Charlie Tong. Maher won in great style, thus retaining the amateur light-weight championship of the Colony, and is undoubtedly the better boxer, with an extremely powerful right for one of his age. Maher, who had used his right to the exclusion of his left in the first two rounds, showed later by the clever use of his left, that he was not a one-shot boxer by any means. Maher is a quicker and better than he was before the war, and knows how to guard his body. Ward, who is a heavy hitter, leaves his face open when he hits, and Maher was able to get in some terrific thumps. Ward was extremely plucky not to have given up in the fifth round, when he was so badly knocked about, and he deserves great credit for having lasted the six rounds.

Pluck is the first attribute of a boxer, and Webb of the Ambrose showed that he had that attribute in sufficient degree when he stood up to Seaman Dechenhardt of the Hawkins for six rounds. Dechenhardt had a length of arm that prevented Webb from inflicting a blow without receiving one himself, with the result that the Hawkins man was able to keep his opponent off, and jab at him just as he liked. In the second round, he had Webb "thinking," but did not deliver a sufficiently powerful blow, not being confident enough of his own capabilities. From the third round onwards, however, Dechenhardt fought like a different man, and all Webb's aggression was met with a right that seldom missed its mark. Dechenhardt was deservedly given the verdict on points.

Seaman Hewlitt, of the Alacrity, who had met Peggy Evans, of the Hawkins, in a ten-round contest at the Theatre Royal on December 13th—the referee deciding that the match was drawn—met Evans in a return contest. The event was a stop-gap, to take the place of the Kerrison-Walters fight, abandoned because the doctor would not allow Walters to fight, and Hewlitt was very sporting in fighting because he had only recently recovered from an attack of influenza, and he had not been able to train at all. Under the circumstances, of which only his intimate friends were aware, Hewlitt put up an extremely good fight. Evans shaped much better than on the previous occasion, especially after the first three rounds, during which Hewlitt, a master of footwork, sailed in and out, launching out with his left. Hewlitt had the better of the first three rounds, but Evans, who had repeatedly been aiming at Hewlitt's body and had got home more than once, improved visibly, and in the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds he landed more blows on Hewlitt's chest than the latter could have appreciated. Hewlitt was not using his right as much as he should have done. From the seventh round onwards, Hewlitt, feeling the strain of the body blows he had received, did not display so much initiative. He kept out of the way of Evans's sledge-hammer right and scored points occasionally, but the probability is that, if the match had gone the full ten rounds, Evans would have been declared the winner. In the ninth round Hewlitt, who was very pale and was undoubtedly distressed from having received numerous jabs in the region of his stomach, gave up the fight.

After a short interval, a contest took place between Sergeant of the Ambrose, and Willoughby of the Hawkins. Judging from appearances, it seemed as if this was not to be, for Willoughby, the shorter and lighter man, was nothing if not plucky. He went for his opponent in the most approved style, but, as in the Dechenhardt-Webb match, the man with the longer arm was able to punch the other every time the other launched out on an attack. Willoughby took a lot of punishment on his face, but he was out-pointed and the referee rightly decided in his favour.

The contest for the middle-weight championship of the Colony between Mason of the Hawkins, and Lee, of the Ambrose, was a disappointment. It proved that, in the larger majority of cases, it is not good policy for a boxer to "come back." As one old pug remarked after the contest: "It is very easy for a boxer to go back, but it is a sight more difficult for him to come back." Lee must have been a powerful boxer in his day, but he could not have been a very clever one, or he has forgotten all he knew of the art of defence. He is the possessor of a very useful right, and so it appeared to many, he relied on that one shot to gain him the fight before his opponent could do any damage to him. In launching out, however, Lee had his own face quite unguarded, and Mason, with such a mark staring him in the face, was not going to lose the chance. Seven times in the three rounds Mason planted his right on Lee's jaw, and seven times Lee was floored. Mason himself does not strike one's eye as a very convincing boxer, but, then, he did not get an opportunity of showing his left middle, and the hope a better match will be arranged for him at the next tournament. After the contest, Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Duff put the belt, presented by the Hongkong Daily Press, on the winner amid tumultuous cheers.

THE RESULTS.

The following is a brief description of the fights in the order in which they took place:

COOK DEFEATS NORTH.

The first round saw each man testing the other. Cook was warned not to hit in clinches. Cook was aiming at the other's body and got in some telling jabs. North retaliated with powerful punches with his right, most of which the R.M.L.I. man guarded. There was very little to choose between the two men and it was evident the contest was going to be a close one. Cook forced in fighting and repeatedly hit the other on his body, but North received these blows smilingly. He was awaiting an opportunity to use his left and presently got in a sounding thump on the R.M.L.I. man's mouth. Cook drew clear from the other man's mouth, but the blow was a light one. Cook scored with several right arm swinging punches on North's face, and the sailor retreated for a while. North swung round on his opponent with his right and Cook was raised off the ground, but the blow had not sufficient beef behind it.

North, by pretty footwork, got out of the way of some of his opponent's powerful blows. In the latter half of the round he went for the other with both left and right, and Cook received at least two hard blows on his face. Both men were too fond of clinching to do much damage to each other. In the fifth round Cook forced the fighting and North received some powerful jabs from the other's right. North cleverly evaded some of Cook's rights and had many an opportunity of administering a blow on the other's solar plexus that would have finished matters, but he did not take advantage of these openings. Before the last round, both men were told by the referee that neither of them was trying and the fighting was somewhat more conclusive. Cook got swinging rights on the other man's jaw, and put it at least one uppercut that made North wince. Cook having forced the fighting in the last round, when his weight was beginning to tell, he was declared the winner by the referee. North had put up a very plucky fight and was cheered when he left the ring.

MAHER DEFEATS WARD.

Maher was giving away three pounds to Ward, whose longer reach also gave him an advantage over his more agile opponent. Maher successfully countered two swinging rights, and then, after a short space of time in which he was looking for an opening, he launched out with a very powerful right, following up the blow with a left punch that left its mark on Ward's countenance. Maher sailed in with his right in the second round, launching out with all his force on the other's face. Ward's longer arm prevented the blow from finding its full force, but Ward was forced to move before the other's menacing right. When Maher attacked on one occasion, Ward retaliated with a blind shot on the other's face—the first convincing blow he had delivered so far. Maher attacked at the beginning of the third round, and forcing his opponent into a corner delivered a couple of powerful jabs. He continued on the aggressive and had Ward running from him. Maher now began to display a useful left, and Ward received some punishment on his face, which was now assuming a sallow complexion. This was distinctly Maher's round for he had the other's groggy, and while he punished his opponent, he received nothing himself. In the fourth round Maher continued most of the attacking, and got in several successful rights and lefts. Ward's footwork was helping him to get out of the way of many of the other's blows. Ward went confidently into the fourth round, but Maher soon knocked the smile out of the other's face, and delivered a series of powerful blows with both arms that knocked all the stuffing out of Ward. Ward was sent to the boards on two occasions, and each time he took full advantage of the count. He was now in great distress, and Maher should have delivered the coup de grace, which he, however, failed to do. In the next round, Ward was floored three times more, each time with a tremendous hard punch with the right. Ward lasted through this round somehow, and was applauded when he staggered out of the ring. Maher was declared the winner.

DECHENHARDT DEFEATS WEBB.

Dechenhardt, the taller and the heavier man, also had the advantage of reach. Webb sailed in with his right, but Dechenhardt parried the blow. There was not much fighting in the first round. Webb was dancing round his opponent most of the time and putting in jabs with his right, and just before the gong went he delivered one staggering blow on the other's jaw that left Dechenhardt thinking. There was a lot of fighting in the second round. Webb commenced by being the aggressor, but the other, using his longer arm, soon realised that offence was the best defence and began to chase the other fellow round the ring. If his blows had only been a little more powerful, the contest might have ended in this round, for Dechenhardt's right landed with painful regularity on the other's face. In the third round, Webb showed that he possessed pluck in a remarkable degree by going for his opponent hammer and tongs. His methods lacked science, but his blows had force behind them, and Dechenhardt came in to meet them. Dechenhardt came into the fourth round evidently determined to end matters, but Webb, as good as he got, Webb met blow for blow, each man using his right and defending with his left. Webb being the more active, was able to give more punishment and he drew blood from the other's left eye with a powerful jab with his right. Webb also scored with a lovely uppercut. In the fifth round, plenty of blows were given and received, Webb's footwork coming to his aid. Dechenhardt was bleeding freely from his left eye, which was now closing up. The round was undoubtedly Webb's, who was nothing if not plucky. The last round saw furious fighting. Dechenhardt landed his right on the other's jaw and followed up the blow with a left on the jaw. Dechenhardt forced the fighting and got in a couple of body blows that put the other into difficulties. It was one in this round that Webb had to the fourth round, when he had to clinch to prevent himself from being knocked out. Dechenhardt won in the last round and there was much cheering from the Hawkins men when the referee gave him the verdict on points.

EVANS DEFEATS HEWLITT.

Hewlitt opened the scoring with a swinging right, following up the blow with a jab on the body. Evans retaliated with a swinging shot on Hewlitt's ear, and attempted another when Hewlitt got out of his way. Seeing an opening, Evans delivered an uppercut and then got in a stinging shot on Hewlitt's wind. Hewlitt, not in the least distressed, got his opponent into a corner and delivered three shots in quick succession on the other's face. Evans was forced to cover up. In the second round the fighting was even. Evans was making for the other's body, while Hewlitt was devoting his attention to Evans' face. Hewlitt was the more active man, but Evans has a clever style of muffling blows that prevented Hewlitt from delivering any really telling shot. Evans' right found its mark on Hewlitt's body, to which Hewlitt returned with a couple of sounding jabs on the Hawkins man's face. The fighting so far had been more or less even. At the end of the third round Hewlitt had his opponent gasping, and a couple of blows more might have finished matters, but the gong came in time. There was a lot of in-fighting in the fourth round, with each man trying for the other's body. Hewlitt was now getting more cautious about guarding his body, and Evans was unable to do any damage. The Hawkins man was guarding his body very well. Things brightened up in the fifth round when each man attacked in turn. Hewlitt received a lot of punishment on his body and was in distress. Evans' powerful right once lifted Hewlitt clean off the ground, but the latter rose at once and the gong announced the finish of the round. This round was certainly Evans'.

In the sixth round, Evans now fairly confident that he had his man, was looking for an opening to knock Hewlitt out, but Hewlitt was sailing in and out of the other's reach very actively. Evans' left found his mark on Hewlitt's chest. Hewlitt scored towards the end of the round with his right. Hewlitt fared only a little better in the seventh round. Wisely he kept out of the way of the other's terrible right, and Evans was unable to get in a really forcible blow. Evans was, however, shaping far more like a boxer than his opponent. In the eighth round, Evans again scored with his right on Hewlitt's face and his left on the body. Hewlitt, after a lot of defensive work, brought off a terrific hard jab on Evans' jaw in this round. Evans sent Hewlitt down again just before the gong sounded, but the Alacrity man rose at once. There was a series of clinches in the ninth round, and Evans landed a couple of blows more on the other's body. Hewlitt, who was feeling indisposed, gave up the match in this round, and Evans was declared the winner.

SERGEANT DEFEATS WILLOUGHBY.

Sergeant, the taller man, commenced on the aggressive, but found in Willoughby a worthy opponent. Sergeant's longer arm helped him to deliver a couple of telling blows. Willoughby retaliated with a succession of blows with both arms, forcing Sergeant to give way. Sergeant landed a good uppercut on the other's jaw. In the second round, there was a lot of hitting, each man using his right freely. Willoughby got in several useful jabs on the other's body, and in the latter part of the round, both men were bleeding from the nose. Willoughby was taking refuge in clinches, and punching from close in, and he seldom received a blow without returning it with interest. In the third round, Willoughby, on the aggressive, put in a quick double punch on the other's jaw, lifting him off the floor. Sergeant rose at three, and proceeded to hit his opponent. Seeing his opportunity, he landed a forceful straight right on the other's wind, that left Willoughby gasping for breath. In the next round, each man rushed in turn, and Willoughby received a good shaking up, for Sergeant used his right to good effect every time he got an opportunity. Willoughby, however, seemed not to take the blows he received and he repeatedly went down with his right. Towards the end of this round Willoughby left his body uncovered and Sergeant got in a couple of jabs. In the fifth round Willoughby received more punishment, and was forced to clinch. Sergeant's right landed on the other's chest and face time after time. One shot, a good uppercut with his left, nearly took Willoughby off his legs. In the last round Sergeant did all the fighting, swinging his right and left on the other's chest. Willoughby, game as ever, lunged out with his right, but missed Sergeant, who moved out of the way. Willoughby's nose was cut. Sergeant finished this round with a powerful left into the other's jaw. Sergeant was decidedly given the verdict, but Willoughby had fought very pluckily against a bigger, taller and heavier man.

MASON KNOCKS OUT LEE.

Lee was told not to hit in the clinches in the first round, in which there were a number of clinches. Lee received an uppercut on the jaw that floored him but he rose at once. Both men were using their rights almost to the exclusion of their lefts.

Lee forced the fighting in the opening of the second round and put in a couple of body blows. Mason floored his opponent three times in this round with swinging rights that had terrific force behind them. Lee took two counts of nine and the gong went when he was down for the third time.

The third round opened furiously. Lee attacked his opponent regardless of all defence. He landed one shot on the other's face. He attempted to follow up the blow, but Mason just stepped back and, aiming at Lee's unguarded jaw, let drive with his right and Lee went to the floor like a log. He rose, dazed, at nine and again attempted to land his right on Mason's jaw. In so doing, he again left his face unguarded and Mason promptly swung his right and sent Lee reeling to the floor. Lee took full advantage of the count and rose staggering. Evans again sent him to the boards. Lee's seconds wisely threw in the towel and Mason was declared the winner.

HONGKONG JOCKEY CLUB RACES.

A RAINY "OFF-DAY."

MR. HILL RIDES SIXTEEN WINNERS IN THE MEETING.

The "Off Day" of the 1920 race meeting turned out to be the most miserable of the four, and the racing was carried out under difficulties such as had not been experienced for many years. It rained for the best part of Friday night and practically the whole of Saturday, and parts of the course could only be likened to a morass. In spite of this, the original arrangements were carried out, though those who were able to see the humour of it could not repress a smile when the ponies were walked back to the paddock, with both pony and rider completely covered with mud, the faces of many riders being hardly recognisable.

The attendance, under the exceedingly depressing conditions, was large, specially in the afternoon, when those who had been waiting in vain for a favourable turn in the weather decided to come out in spite of the rain. The Grand Stand was a grey mass of macintoshes and overcoats. Some of the ladies wore weird costumes. Both the Pari-mutuel and the cash sweep were patronised very freely, the first prize in the sweep for the last event of the meeting being larger than that of any other event during the four days except, of course, the Derby and the Champions.

The going was, of course, extraordinarily slow and the ponies found it heavy work labouring through the mud and water, at places several inches deep. In spite of these conditions, it was, on the whole, a favourites' day out, and only in one race was there anything like a genuine upset. Many unexpected ponies came into places, but these added to the zest of the sport. Towards the end, several races were run in heavy rain, and it seemed dangerous to ponies and riders alike, when taking the awkward bends, but fortunately no accident occurred.

Contrary to usual custom, the premier jockeys from Shanghai, appeared again, thanks to their not having a convenient steamer on which they could depart. It was only to be expected that the visitors would sweep the board. Mr. Hill won five races in succession—setting up a record that will take a lot of beating—Crokam won three, Dalgarno two and Vida the remaining one. Mr. John Johnston did not ride on Saturday, owing to a slight indisposition.

Mr. Hill has now got the enviable record of having ridden 16 winners during the meeting, and obtained 5 seconds. Dalgarno has ridden six winners. Vida five and Crokam four. The lesson of Saturday's racing was that the ponies were a pretty even lot. The riders made all the difference. For instance, not many backed Red Robe, Lancaster, Supper Dance and the Farmer to win on the first three days, when other jockeys had the mounts.

Sir Paul Chater had the satisfaction of obtaining two more wins on Saturday, increasing his wins to 8. Mr. Dynasty got the first two wins of the meeting, while Mr. Hay's Brutus won his third race. Mr. Potts must have been pleased that his Valley King, the only pony belonging to him that had failed to win a race on the first three days, won the "All Out" Stakes. "Mr. Logor" who had had two seconds and a third, won both with Red Robe and The Farmer. Mr. Moxon's Louza, who had been described as one of the best of the Horse Bazaar Subscription Griffins, came into his own in the "Finale" Stakes, when he won an easy race from Uncle.

An incident freely discussed on Saturday was that which occurred during the running of the "Champions" Stakes on Friday. It will be remembered that Spotted Sand (Soreus) was leading for the best part of the race and was only overtaken in the straight by Mighty King (Hill up). It now appears that, near the top of the straight, Mighty King swerved inward, and Spotted Sand, who was on the rails, was at one time in danger of colliding with the rails. Soreus, riding Spotted Sand, seeing his danger, lost for a few seconds, the attention he had been paying to the race, and consequently went back a length. During this time, Spotted Sand and Mighty King were running so close together that Hill in whipping his mount, once flicked Spotted Sand on the head by accident. Some who witnessed these incidents tried to persuade Mr. Soreus, the owner of Spotted Sand, to protest, but Mr. Soreus very sportingly and rightly decided that Hill had not intended to commit a foul.

The first prize in the cash sweep for the Champions was won by a syndicate of eight, the ticket being purchased by Mr. Henderson of Shewan, Tomes & Co. The second prize was won by Mr. W. J. Morrison, of the Chartered Bank, who purchased the ticket on behalf of a friend in Saigon.

THE RESULTS.

The results of the races were as follow:—

The ponies gave a lot of trouble to the starter, and after several false starts, they got away in a procession, with King Cole leading, Sandmartin on his heels, and the rest trailing behind him in a bunch, with Dunford and Pussyfoot in good position and El Dorado at the rear. Up the incline King Cole was caught by Sandmartin, while Trumpet made a very determined effort to make up some of the way he had lost. In the bend Sandmartin dropped back and King Cole was joined by Dunford. Pussyfoot wormed himself to the front in the turn to the home straight, and a fine race was seen down the straight between these three ponies. King Cole finished half a length in front of the other two, who ran into a dead heat for second place.

The ponies got away to a fairly good start. Lancaster took the lead from Attraction Dahlia and Salamander. The same order was maintained till the three-quarter mile post was reached, except that Runaway Light and Valley King were moved up into more favourable positions. Runaway Light, after being second for a while, gave up the race, but Valley King was gaining at every stride and it was evident he was going to make a bid for victory. When in the village bend, the order was Lancaster, Valley King and Salamander, with the Dahlia lying fourth. Valley King led into the home straight and won comfortably by a length. A good race for second place saw Lancaster finish a neck in front of the Dahlia.

A good race, run in a heavy shower. Brutus early took the lead and was never beaten. At the start he had Target just behind him, with the others in the following order: Ludlow, Wee Mouse, Louza, Dunford, Cannon and Gordie Mac. Soon after the three-quarter mile post was passed both Louza and Gordie Mac began to forge ahead, while Target dropped back into fifth position. Louza, on the outside, was running at Brutus' heels up the incline, and in the bend was abreast of him. Target was again brought out in the bend. Brutus was first into the straight and won a fine race from Louza by half a length. Vida brought Wee Mouse up with a rush in the straight, and made a great attempt to keep second position. Louza finished only a short head in front of Mr. Humphrey's pony.

Trumpet took the lead, closely followed by Ryan and Bayford, with King Bruce lying fourth. Up the incline both Ryan and Bayford increased their pace and near the rock Bayford went into first place, with Ryan second and Trumpet third. In the bend there were several changes. King Bruce, hitherto fifth, came up into second place. Both Consternation and Willie considerably improved their positions on the outside. Trumpet, making a final effort, was first in the straight, with King Bruce just behind. Here Trumpet was spent, Willie taking a position on the rails, made a great race of it with King Bruce. The former only won by half a length. Crokam, who hustled Consternation in the home straight, was a very good third, only a neck behind Willie.

When the three-quarter mile post was past both Conqueror Dahlia and Malcolm began to chase the leader. The field closed up in the incline, and past the rock Malcolm was leading, with Hongkong Chief second, Kalamazoo, spect, having given up the contest. Hill brought Red Robe up in the bend. Malcolm led into the home straight, but Hill on Red Robe caught him up soon and won a very fine race by a couple of lengths. Hongkong Chief gave up the race in the straight and Vida came in third on Conqueror Dahlia.

Mr. John Peel's Burning Daylight, 151 lbs. (Mr. Bell Irving)—0

A very good start. When the ponies passed the judge's box for the first time Lancaster was leading by a length from Gentle Cat, with Wilkins Micawber in third place and Vivat lying fourth. The same order was maintained till the bend, when Wilkins Micawber slightly improved his position. In the turn into the straight Crokam got his pony into second position and kept him there. Lancaster won comfortably by four lengths, six lengths separating Wilkins Micawber from Gentle Cat.

Sutton on Trelawney, showed the way to Craigmount, while Trelawney was lying third and Kipper fourth. In going up the incline the field closed in and here Trelawney, who had increased his lead, lost some of it. In the bend Craigmount overtook Trelawney and raced in front for a while. In turning into the straight, however, the leaders were displaced, for Supper Dance, Hill up, who had been gradually creeping up, assumed a leading position, while Bremner, on Clansman, took a place on the outside and came up very strongly. Supper Dance won easily by four lengths and three lengths separating Clansman from Craigmount, who was third.

HONGKONG, FEBRUARY 16TH, 1920.

CHINA AND KIAOCHOW.

It was incidentally remarked in our leading article on Saturday that the Chinese Government is apparently preparing, after all, to enter into negotiations with Japan for the return of Kiachow. From the first it has been obvious that negotiations of some kind must take place unless China is prepared to assert her claims by military force, which, of course, she would be quite unable to do with any chance of success. Some interesting information throwing a little light on the present attitude of the Chinese Government in reference to this question will be found in our news columns to-day.

What our Peking Correspondent, a week or two ago, called "the more practical-minded people in Government circles" have realised that there must be negotiations, no matter how unpopular the proceeding may be, and it looks very much as if the majority of the Government has now come to that conclusion, in spite of the decision of the Cabinet, a few weeks ago, not to accept Japan's invitation to enter into negotiations. We have not heard, however, that any formal reply to that effect was given to Japan. That Mr.

Lu Tseung-shiang, who was Head of the Delegation to the Paris Peace Conference, persisted in his intention to retire into private life is, in itself, significant. His

"indisposition" will be generally interpreted as being more diplomatic than physical. When the Peace delegates pass ed through Hongkong on their way to Peking, Mr. C. T. Wang, perhaps the most eloquent of them, made speeches, both here and in Canton, which amounted to an incitement to his compatriots to support to their utmost the attitude which the Government, through the Delegates, had taken up in regard to the matter at the Conference. Presumably

Mr. Lu, his chief, was in full sympathy with this counsel, and if the Government now desires that he should enter upon negotiations with Japan, it would sufficiently explain the "indisposition," which makes him press for the President's acceptance of his resignation. But one of the Peace Delegates is reported to be counselling the Government to accept Japan's invitation to negotiate. This is

Dr. Koo, the Minister to Washington, who was largely responsible for the presentation of China's case to the Conference, and who still remains in Paris.

This is so unexpected a change of front that the report is accepted with reserve.

Until it is confirmed we can at least regard its publication as a straw showing which way the wind is blowing in the capital. The purport of the counsel alleged to have been given to the Government by Dr. Koo is so vaguely stated that it conveys little information that is new, but the interpretation we place upon it is that Dr.

Koo suggests that the result of the negotiations would prove to the world

the sincerity or otherwise of the pledges given to the Peace Conference by Japan.

At all events Dr. Koo would appear to anticipate that China by these negotiations must gain her object. Another indication that negotiations will be entered upon is contained in a report that the Government has instructed the Military Governor of Shantung to organise a special police force to undertake the services now being performed by Japanese troops in Shantung. And,

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE ADDRESS IN HOUSE OF COMMONS.

EARLIER CABLES.

PARLIAMENT OPENED IN FULL STATE CRITICISM OF THE PEACE TREATY.

London, February 10th. Parliament was opened in full state for the first time since 1914.

AN INTERESTING DEBATE.

In the House of Commons, Colonel Sidney Peel moved the Address and Mr. Woolcock seconded.

Mr. Adamson, the leader of the Labour Party, followed. He suggested that the whole situation should be reviewed with a view to securing a lasting peace before the remaining Peace Treaties are ratified. Referring to his recent tour in Ireland, he declared that nothing but a generous measure of self-government, with no dividing up of Ireland, would satisfy Irish aspirations. He urged the withdrawal of the system of military government in Ireland.

Sir Donald Maclean announced that the Liberals would propose an amendment to the Address in favour of a revision of the Peace Treaties. He declared that the tripartite Treaty must be revised because it now seemed as if the signature of the President of the United States to the guarantees to France was not going to be honoured.

Lord Hugh Cecil declared that it would be madness to impose a Bill on Ireland contrary to the wish of the majority of the population. He suggested that the Irish be requested to invoke a public Convention at which they could find their own solution and produce their own Bill. The Convention should be of the lines of a Constituent Assembly elected by Parliamentary franchise. If they proposed a Republic, the British people would not be likely ever to agree thereto and a deadlock would arise.

LATEST CABLES.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE ADDRESS.

London, February 12th.

In the House of Commons, Mr. George Thorne moved an amendment to the Address regarding that the Government did not recognise the many impracticabilities of the Peace Treaty; nor appreciate the grave dangers to the economic position at home and abroad by the delay in restoring settled conditions in Europe and the Near East.

Sir Donald Maclean quoted General Smuts' message, in which it was said that the real work of making peace would only begin after the Treaty was signed, and expressed the opinion that the whole experience of the past month had shown how substantially accurate was General Smuts' estimate of the situation. Sir D. Maclean appealed to the Government to take a long and statesmanlike view, further to fix the amount of the indemnity. He deplored the length of the German Black List, and foreboded years of international litigation upon the subject. He urged that there was no hope of a sound economic future for Europe without free trade all round, and a start should be made in the new States of Central Europe.

RESULT OF DELAY IN DEALING WITH TURKEY.

Lord Robert Cecil urged the impracticability of undertaking a revision of the Treaty at present, although some terms would have to be revised later. Mentioning Egypt, the Middle East, Mesopotamia and Armenia, he said the situation was profoundly serious, chiefly owing to the delay in dealing with the Turkish question. He deprecated any further delay, and suggested that the League of Nations should publicly debate the Russian situation and also send to Russia two International Missions to ascertain what was going on there, and, secondly, to define the provisional boundaries of Russia and the border States.

MR. BALFOUR'S REPLY.

Mr. Balfour, replying, declared that neither the Allied nor the German experts were able to estimate what Germany could pay ten or fifteen years hence. The Treaty provided that Germany might offer a lump sum within four months. The British Government had always been most anxious carefully to limit its list of war criminals, but was not enabled to examine other nations' lists. The British list included nobody who carried out illegal orders unless he had exceeded such orders. He sympathised with the difficult position of M. Clemenceau, who approved of the British point of view but was unable to escape the inclusion of persons guilty of individual crimes.

Mr. Balfour said he believed that the colours were too dark in which to paint a great part of Europe, but the deplorable situation was not due to the Treaty but was the outcome of the war and the result of the applications of the principle of self-determination, the new States refusing to co-operate with their neighbours.

THE DUTY OF NATIONS MADE RICHER BY THE WAR.

Mr. Balfour denied that Great Britain was in any way responsible for the delayed Turkish peace. He considered that the suggested intervention of the League of Nations in regard to Russia would be unavailing because its leading members had already tried unsuccessfully to discover a solution at the Peace Conference. Broadly speaking, the reason why Europe lacked so many fundamental necessities at present was because labour produced much less than before the war and credit had been shattered. A great amelioration in the condition of Europe might be possible if the countries which were left richer than before (cheers) fully assisted. Great Britain's greatest contribution to the solution of the problem would be to maintain intact and build up her great industrial system, around which the whole security of Europe really revolved.

Mr. Thorne's amendment was rejected by 254 votes to 60.

EARLIER CABLES.

NATIONALISATION.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS OUT BOLDLY.

London, February 11th. In his speech in the House of Commons, Mr. Lloyd George contended that the real aim of the Miners' Federation was to obtain full control of the mines. That was not nationalisation. (Loud cheers.) The handing over of this great national asset to one industry would be a disaster to the community. The Bill which the Government were going to introduce was designed to improve mining industrial conditions and give the miners a more effective voice in control and an opportunity of contributing their experience and counsel to the management.

Dealing with the extremist speech by the Labourite, Mr. Lunn, Mr. Lloyd George said Mr. Lunn proposed that a privileged minority should dictate to the majority. The Premier declared, amid prolonged cheers, that "on that issue we will fight him to death, for success would mean the establishment of a Soviet and the end of constitutional Government."

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

BIG GOVERNMENT PROGRAMME FOR NEXT SESSION.

London, February 9th. The State opening of Parliament on Tuesday will mark a momentous session. The Government programme includes a dozen first-class Bills, the chief of which will be Home Rule and coal measures, the latter of which continues Government control of mines. A Land Bill is also expected fixing guaranteed prices of grain for a number of years and giving farmers increased security of tenure.

There is considerable speculation regarding Ministerial reshuffling. It is believed that Sir Robert Horne will succeed Sir Auckland Geddes whilst Sir Eric Geddes is also likely to retire and accept an important post in the city. It is expected that Mr. Wardle and Mr. Parker will resign. Mr. McCurdy is the most likely successor to Mr. Roberts. It is rumoured that Mr. Chamberlain's position is uncertain. It is expected that Mr. Henderson will be elected Chairman of the Labourites.

LATEST CABLES.

DISCUSSION OF PEACE TREATY.

M. POINCARÉ REGARDS IT AS INADMISSIBLE.

PARIS, February 9th.

A Havas message states:— Speaking in the course of a visit to Chalons-sur-Marne, M. Poincaré said the discussion of the Treaty signed by the Powers was inadmissible. What had been signed should be sacred to all, the victors and the vanquished. The nation, who caused the war, must bear its consequences.

EARLIER CABLES.

CONSOLIDATING PEACE. TREATY WILL HAVE TO BE REVISED.

LONDON, February 10th.

In the House of Lords, Lord Curzon expressed the belief that a good deal of the Peace Treaty would have to be rewritten and revised in course of time. None of its authors claimed a sacrosanct character for it. If Germany showed a disposition faithfully to fulfil her Treaty obligations we would do our best to aid her therein and to resume her place among the civilised communities of the world.

Lord Curzon expressed anxiety as regards the outlook in the Near and Middle East, and emphasised the necessity of a broad-minded viewpoint in settling the difficult problems not yet decided by the Peace Conference.

CONFERENCES BETWEEN ALLIED PREMIERS.

LONDON, February 9th.

The series of conferences between the Allied Premiers is to be resumed on the 12th instant.

TERMINATION OF WAR FIXED.

The Gazette contains a Decree which fixes January 1st as the date of the termination of the war between Britain and Germany. The decree explains that it is impossible to fix the date of the termination of the present war, as the Treaties of Peace with some belligerents have not yet been ratified.

LATEST CABLES.

COUNCIL OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

SUMMONED TO MEET IN LONDON.

PARIS, February 9th.

A Havas message states:— M. Leon Bourgeois has convoked the Council of the League of Nations to meet in London on Wednesday next during three days.

SUPREME COUNCIL.

RESUMES WORK IN LONDON.

LONDON, February 12th.

The Supreme Council met this morning at ten at Downing Street. Mr. Lloyd George, M. Millerand, Signor Nitti and Lord Curzon were present.

The discussions were of a general preliminary character, touching, inter alia, the outstanding questions with Germany and the Turkish question. The conferences are expected to continue for several days and will take up the work of the Supreme Council where it was dropped in Paris and the same course will be followed as in Paris.

The Supreme Council sat six hours today. It is believed that the meeting in London will last three weeks. No American representatives attended.

The Council considered the question of the surrender of war criminals. Complete agreement was found between the Allies regarding further representations to Germany.

The Allied Finance Ministers shortly met to discuss the European financial problems and report to the Supreme Council. It has been decided that Paris will continue to be the official headquarters of the Conference.

THE CONDITION OF CENTRAL EUROPE.

GREAT BRITAIN'S OFFER OF ASSISTANCE.

LONDON, February 12th.

In the House of Commons, during question time, Mr. A. Chamberlain announced that the Government had informed the United States that, besides 12½ millions sterling voted for the current financial year for the relief of Central Europe, the British Government was prepared to contribute a further sum not exceeding half the contribution of the United States and not exceeding ten millions sterling, which would be used to provide British foodstuffs, raw materials and other essentials, and to pay the freight on goods carried by British ships. The Canadian Government had intimated its desire to contribute (Cheers)—and the Government was confident that other Allied and Neutral Governments would co-operate.

EARLIER CABLES.

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

BRITAIN'S ATTITUDE EXPLAINED.

LONDON, February 11th.

In replying to a number of politicians, bankers and financial magnates who recently conferred with him regarding international exchange, Mr. Chamberlain says that the United States Government's attitude is of first importance. He doubts whether their participation in an international Conference on the economic situation is obtainable.

He emphasises the gravity of the situation and says that the Government is, therefore, prepared to appoint representatives to a conference, if so invited, by one of the neutral countries or by the League of Nations, on being satisfied that the Conference would assume a representative character.

The Government will lay down, if they participate, that they are not prepared to add to their existing liabilities, and if the Conference recommends any grant of credits, the Government cannot support nor participate in any scheme involving any addition to Britain's liabilities for expenditure in America.

PARIS, February 11th.

A Havas message states:— Interviewed by the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail, M. Millerand said that he is a strong supporter of the closest possible relations between France and Britain, and if he received any encouragement from Mr. Lloyd George nothing would please him more than to undertake a full discussion of all outstanding questions on the lines of Delcasse's famous programme which resulted in the Entente Cordiale.

The Daily Mail adds that it understands that M. Millerand would like to go further and to establish an actual close Franco-British Alliance. French opinion cordially supports him.

GERMAN WAR CRIMINALS. ALLIED LIST NOT YET COMPLETE.

BERLIN, February 9th.

The Allied Note arrived yesterday, accompanied by a letter from M. Millerand saying that the German Government would not be held responsible for von Lersner's conduct, as the Allies assume that Germany was not trying to evade the Treaty obligations.

Herr Bauer thereupon expressed to the French Charge d'Affaires disapproval of von Lersner's behaviour.

It is learned from German sources that the Allies' Note points out that the names in the list in no wise include the total Germans guilty of transgressing the laws of warfare. The Allies accordingly reserve the right to prosecute others found in Allied territory. The Note demands access to all documentary evidence necessary to prosecution.

DEATH OF INSPECTOR WOOLLEY

LARGELY ATTENDED FUNERAL.

We regret to record the death of Mr. William Henry Woolley, Inspector of the Sanitary Department, which occurred early on Saturday morning at the Government Civil Hospital. The deceased fell ill about Tuesday with a severe cold, which subsequently developed into influenza, from which he never recovered.

The deceased, who was 47 years of age, came to the Colony twenty-three years ago and joined the local Police Force. After serving for three years, in the Force he was transferred to the Sanitary Department, and by 1907 he had risen to the position of senior Sanitary Inspector. Four years later he was appointed storekeeper to the Department. From May to July, last year the deceased acted as Secretary of the Sanitary Board in addition to his other duties.

Prior to coming to Hongkong deceased was with the Rifle Brigade in India. He was a prominent member of the Civil Service Recreation Club and for many years acted as umpire at cricket matches. In his earlier days he used to play for the club. He was a keen and enthusiastic sportsman and wherever the Civil Service played a match he was sure to be there. He acted at one time as Hon. Treasurer of the Club and took a keen interest in bowls. He was a member of the old Volunteer Corps and had held the rank of Sergeant-Major. He was also a Mason and at the time of his death was District Senior Grand Warden of the District Lodge of Hongkong and South China.

He leaves a widow and a large family to mourn his loss.

The funeral took place yesterday evening at Happy Valley and was followed by a large gathering of sympathising friends. At the cemetery gates the coffin was transferred from the hearse to the shoulders of six Sanitary Inspectors, who carried it to the graveside. The Rev. G. R. Lindsay, Vicar of St. Andrew's, Kowloon, officiated and at the conclusion paid a touching tribute to the deceased, who he said, was a keen sportsman and a Christian gentleman. He extended, on behalf of himself and St. Andrew's Church, their deep sympathy to the bereaved family.

Amongst the large gathering present were Mr. A. Gibson, the Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax, Dr. Pearce, Dr. Woodman, Mrs. A. D. Hickling, Mr. E. W. Hamilton, and Mr. C. M. W. Reynolds (Sanitary Department). The Masonic Order was represented by Mr. T. F. Hough, D.G.M., and the following officers of the District Grand Lodges:—The Hon. Mr. Claud Severn, C.M.G., Mr. H. Sykes, Mr. A. E. Crappell, Mr. H. G. Garrod, Mr. A. G. Warren, Mr. C. W. Jeffries, Mr. A. T. Hamilton, Mr. E. W. H. James, and Mr. H. A. Cartwright. Among the members of the general public were the Hon. Mr. T. O. Hutchison, Mr. J. R. Wood, Mr. G. E. Stewart, Mr. J. A. E. Bullock, Mr. G. H. Wakeman, Mr. J. Rodgers, Mr. C. Bond and Mr. J. H. Oxberry.

Amongst those who sent wreaths were the following:—The Government of Hongkong; the Sanitary Department; the United Services Lodge, 1341 E.C.; the District Grand Lodge of Hongkong and South China; the Ararat Lodge of Royal Arch Mariners 264; Victoria Lodge, 1026, E.C.; M.E.Z. officers and members of the United Chapter, 1341 E.C.; Perseverance Lodge 1155, E.C.; Naval and Military Lodge; University Lodge; United Mark Lodge; 419, E.C.; Zetland Lodge; Masonic Brethren of H.M.S. Messrs. Dowbiggin and Sanders' Islesman, 155 lbs.

The ponies got away to a fair start. For a while the Chiefs were in front, but before the football stand was reached Seth on Islesman had worked his pony out from the rear into the first place. Up the incline he was leading. The Farmer, Hill up, was right away at the back, at least 20 lengths behind Islesman, while Dunmore Dahlia was only a couple of lengths in front of him. From the rock these ponies began to make up the leeway they had lost and so fast did they go that in the bend Islesman was only leading by a length from Wilkins Micawber. Here Islesman gave up trying and The Farmer and Dunmore Dahlia came to the front. The race down the straight was Hill's; and he won comfortably by a length. Wilkins Micawber was second and the Dahlia third.
